Regional CSO Activism for Regional Reconciliation in the Former Yugoslavia

In Support of RECOM

1. Background

This project is continuing long-lasting work of the Initiative for RECOM, a civil society network advocating for establishing a Regional Commission for the Facts about War Crimes and Other Serious Violations of Human Rights committed on the territory of the former Yugoslavia, in the period 1991-2001.

Between 2007 and 2011, the partner organisations conducted consultation process which engaged over 8,000 individuals from different sections of society from all over the former Yugoslavia around the idea of facing the past regionally. These debates gave birth to a Draft RECOM Statute, outlining the goals, tasks and basic activities of a future inter-state commission for establishing the facts about war crimes and human rights violations that took place during the Yugoslav wars. The Statute is supported by a broad coalition of around 2,050 members – human rights organizations, youths, victims and victims' organizations, veterans' organizations, religious communities, journalists, intellectuals and victims' family members – from across the region.

In the ten years since its inception, the Initiative for RECOM has achieved tremendous results in public and political advocacy for the establishment of this regional commission. It has conducted public debates and outreach campaigns, set up a website which gathers information on relevant developments in transitional justice in the region, expert opinions and victims' stories, and collected signatures in support of RECOM from over half a million people from all post-Yugoslav states. This was followed by secured significant political support from the region, as well as political, technical and financial support from EU and EU member states. Finally, in order to help the future commission to carry out its mandate - to document all wartime detention sites and create a registry and combatants who lost their lives or disappeared in connection with war (as foreseen by the Statute) - the Coalition for RECOM conducts comprehensive research to identify human losses.

Activities of the project Regional CSO Activism for Regional Reconciliation in the Former Yugoslavia - In Support of RECOM are building on the achievements of this decade of civil society activism for the establishment of a regional truth-telling commission for the Yugoslav wars by further enlarging the understanding for the importance of transitional justice, reconciliation and remembrance in post Yugoslav countries.

Centre for Civic Education (CCE/CGO), on behalf of lead applicant and partners in the project will overtake the conduct of this Call, from its publication, through evaluation of the project proposals and monitoring, and perform as the Contracting Authority for the award projects.

2. Objectives of the Call

The overall objective of this Call is to strengthen prospects for regional reconciliation in the Western Balkans by establishing the facts on war crimes and human losses and detention sites related to the Yugoslav wars of the 1990s.

The specific objectives of this project are (1) to facilitate the establishment of a Regional Commission for establishing the facts and identifying the victims of the Yugoslav wars of the 1990; (2) to engage civil society from all post-Yugoslav states in an inclusive and bottom-up reconciliation initiative; (3) to strengthen the impact of CSOs in the decision-making process in the domain of regional cooperation.

By providing needed financial support to the organizations, strengthening their capacities, supporting advocacy and networking, this Call will contribute to the sustainability and improvement of the position of the primarily, but not exclusively, small or newly founded civil society organizations dealing with the past issues in North Macedonia and Kosovo.

Note: through the first Call for proposals the support was granted to the civil society organizations dealing with the past issues in Slovenia, Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Serbia, and Montenegro.
